
"De Funct"
Broken Links Masterfile

Note - I worked on this the week leading up to Halloween 2024, using the most up to date files available at rebrand.ly/ShareThread at that time. Each link was followed, although I followed up on very few links appearing in pastebin pages, as 99% of those associated troves seem intact when the pastebin was still up. Troves linked in Da Annex were hardest hit, and after I forward this to Tha Main Man I expect the next issue will be thinner than a New York Joint. Da Archive was next hardest hit, with Da Curated Archive the least affected, possibly because they are labours of love maintained by someone willing to replace the trove if it gets hit.

That seems to suggest that anti-piracy groups are using Da Docs as a guide to know exactly where to strike. At this point, anyone who says troves are not disappearing is either a moron fed a steady diet of lead and mercury, an industry plant, or a shill. The one thing they are not, is truthful. This damage is catastrophic.

Moving forward, we need to adapt to survive. There needs to be a serious discussion about what services are used to host files, what jurisdictions those servers need to be in, and a better mechanism needs to be in place to report when troves are down so we aren't circulating Docs that are almost entirely dead. It is my opinion that we may need to abandon the concept of Da Docs themselves - it was all well and good when they were secret and no one knew about them, but now they're easily googled up and there are multiple copies on Scribd. Their discontinuation may act to discourage tourists and casual Reddit assholes, who think there are no shares to be had. 4chan leaks like a sieve - it is a poor place to carry out any kind of conspiracy, even one as noble as game preservation, and it's continued degradation, the recalcitrance of it's management, the partisan agendas of it's janitors and the utter hostility of it's userbase only further undermine this community and it's efforts. It is small wonder that the only places the share community are thriving is on other platforms, other protocols, that are not listed on a google search.

It is possible that this report does not cover the full extent of the damage. While navigating Mediafire I discovered that troves listing multiple files are sometimes locked behind DMCA takedowns, despite appearing intact - there is no way of knowing without checking every single file stored in a directory on Mediafire. As this project was a solo effort and already took 60 hours, I pass that torch on to someone else.

Carpe Diem, Carpe Noctem; Carpe Omnium.
